Is Delta's Stock Cheap by the Numbers?

By Anand Chokkavelu, CFA

January 7, 2011

Numbers can lie -- but they're the best first step in determining whether a stock is a buy. In this series, we use some carefully chosen metrics to size up a stock's true value based on the following clues:

- The current price multiples
- The consistency of past earnings and cash flow
- How much growth we can expect

Let's see what those numbers can tell us about how expensive or cheap Delta Air Lines (NYSE: DAL) might be.

The current price multiples

First, we'll look at most investors' favorite metric: the P/E ratio. It divides the company's share price by its earnings per share (EPS) -- the lower, the better.

Then, we'll take things up a notch with a more advanced metric: enterprise value to unlevered free cash flow. This divides the company's enterprise value (basically, its market cap plus its debt, minus its cash) by its unlevered free cash flow (its free cash flow, adding back the interest payments on its debt). Like the P/E, the lower this number is, the better.

Delta Expects Lower 4Q Profit

Zacks Equity Research, On Thursday January 6, 2011, 11:00 am EST

Delta Air Lines Inc. (NYSE: DAL - News), the second largest U.S. airline, expects fourth quarter profit will be $45 million less than its previous expectation as several of its flights were cancelled due to severe snowfall in December across the U.S. and Western Europe.

In December, Delta Air Lines' traffic rose 2.6% to 15.04 billion revenue passenger miles from 14.68 billion in the year-ago month. Capacity or available seat miles grew 3.9% and load factor (percentage of seats filled with passengers) fell 110 bps year over year to 80.1%.

Domestic traffic inched up 0.5% year over year on capacity increase of 1.2% offset by a decline of 60 bps in the load factor to 79.6%. International traffic also increased 5.3% year over year primarily driven by an 8.1% capacity increase while load factor decreased 210 bps to 80.7%.

The current fourth quarter Zacks Consensus Estimate for Delta is 27 cents, representing 200% growth from the year-ago level. The company is slated to announce its fourth quarter earnings on January 24, 2011.

Mistakes Led Planes Toward Near-Collision

The National Transportation Safety Board said a series of slip-ups by pilots and air-traffic controllers twice put a US Airways Group Inc. jet and a Boeing 747 cargo plane on a near-collision course over Alaska last year.

Communication lapses by both sets of pilots, compounded by lax controller procedures, temporarily cut off radio contact between the relevant controller and the planes.

The board's report on the May incident, released earlier this week, indicates that the US Airways plane with 138 people aboard ended up flying 100 feet under the altitude of the Cargolux cargo jet. The planes were separated by less than one-third of a mile horizontally, as they maneuvered in good weather near the international airport in Anchorage, Alaska.

The report comes amid heightened concerns about reported controller errors nationwide, which have increased recently and last year prompted the Federal Aviation Administration to launch various safety initiatives. The safety board also has stepped up its scrutiny of midair near-collisions.

LAST MINUTE NEWS      Tax Season Delay for Certain Filers      1/4/2011

The IRS has just announced a delay in the start of tax season for some individual taxpayers affected by the Tax Relief Act of 2010. This delay affects individual taxpayers who itemize deductions, claim tuition and fees deduction, or claim the educator expense deduction. The delay affects both paper-filed and e-file returns.

The IRS is telling preparers to wait for the IRS prescribed start date – mid-to late February 2011 – before e-filing these returns; returns submitted on paper prior to the IRS prescribed start date will be 'shelved' and processed later than returns filed on or after the start date.

What this means to you: If you itemize deductions, you cannot E-file your tax return until mid-to-late February and will not receive any refund until Mid-March.

DP3 Chairman's Update

January 8, 2011

I hope all of you enjoyed the holidays with friends and family, but I know we are all looking for better things to come in 2011!

We are eager to get the appeal process started after waiting for over four years for the PBGC to finally issue our Final Benefit Determination letters. Unfortunately, as December 2010 passed into history, the agency missed another self-imposed deadline to issue the remaining BDLs. As a result, our appeal date has now slipped again, this time until March 18, 2011. Remember, no action is required on your part as a result of this delay - you're already granted extension automatically extends to this new date.

New DP3 Trustee

This week we experienced a change in the ranks of DP3 trustees. As many of you know, Bud Musser has been flying as a B777 captain for Asiana airlines and now Turkish Airlines. The commutes to Seoul and then Istanbul complicated Bud's life enough, but now he has recently married and relocated his wife and son from Korea to the United States.

Bud's hectic flight schedule and living half way around the world proved difficult to overcome when it came to attending DP3 meetings and participating in our regular conference calls. This week I regretfully accepted Bud's resignation from his trustee position. The DP3 trustees all wish Bud the best of luck as he moves on to the next chapter in his life and we thank him for the time he served his fellow retirees.

The trustees have appointed Clarke Brant to fill the vacant trustee position. Clarke was the candidate receiving the next highest number of votes in the last trustee election, and both Rhea Nichols and I served together with Clarke on the Delta MEC following the merger with Western Airlines. For those of you who do not know Clarke, here is some information from the resume he posted when running for DP3 trustee:

- Clarke is 65 years old, married once, with two children, both pilots.
- He is a graduate of the University of Washington, with a degree in Economics, and the University of Puget Sound, School of Law.
- Member Washington State Bar Association, retired 2009.
- Began airline career with Western in 1977 and retired from Delta at age sixty in 2005. Flew Captain for four years on the B-737-800.
- Clarke served three terms as ALPA Representative for the SEA and PDX bases, 1988-1994. Also served as Local Strike Preparedness Chair.
- Former FAA Aviation Safety Inspector, Air Carrier Operations.
- City Council member, second elected term. Serves on the Finance, Planning, Code Review, and Public Interest Committees. Currently Mayor-Pro-Tem.

Clarke ended his bio with this statement, "I am eager to serve and can come on speed rapidly. I promise to keep the interests of all member pilots in mind when making decisions concerning DP3 resources."

The other trustees look forward to serving with Clarke and we know he will make a great addition to our team.

Dues Reminder

This is a reminder that the DP3 dues for 2011 have been established at $300. These dues are payable no later than March 31, 2011 in order to maintain Honor Roll status, but those who have contributed past dues and assessments totaling $1200 will be considered Honor Roll members until

March 31. In order to participate in the PBGC appeal, all dues and assessments must be current. You can easily pay here using your credit card.

Hi Mark.

On July,22-2010 I received a letter from the PBGC changing my Monthly Benefit to a higher amount of about $45.00 more a month. As of today Jan. 3rd-2011 my check still remains the same without the increased payment. I called the PBGC at 1-800-400-7242 and ask them when I could expect an increase in my PBGC check. The person I was talking to forwarded my call to Atlanta and connected me with another PBGC specialist. They said that it takes quite some time for the PBGC to make the corrections, however, they would make the change for me right away and I would be receiving the new amount on Feb. 1st, 2011. You may want to pass this on to others that may have an increase or decrease in payments. Thanks for all your good work.

Subject: DELTA'S OLDEST "LIVING" RETIRED PILOTS

Hi Mark,

In your next couple of High Life messages would you please post this announcement for me, or reword it to fit your space requirements. As you know I maintain the list of DELTA'S OLDEST 'LIVING' RETIRED PILOTS and when I started it, I arbitrarily decided that the year pilots became 86 would be the year to add them to the list.

Now that we're entering 2011 it's time to ask that anyone born during 1925, or before, please notify me of their date of birth and the other things below.

Here's the announcement.

Thanks,
Dave

DELTA'S OLDEST "LIVING" RETIRED PILOTS

Retired ATL Captain Dave Roberts maintains this list and each year adds those pilots who will become 86 years old.

If you were born in 1925 or earlier, please send an email to Dave at robertsDL@mindspring.com with:

- Your Date of Birth
- Your wife's name. If she's deceased, please send her name and date of death.
- Your Date of Hire
- Your original Delta Air Lines Company

The list is available - on request - on the PCN web site or from Dave Roberts.

For those pilots with email groups, please forward this announcement to your list.

Subject: The Grim Reaper for all of the Airplane Buffs

THE "GRIM" REAPER

BALAD AIR BASE, Iraq (AP) The airplane is the size of a jet fighter, powered by a turboprop engine, able to fly at 300 mph and reach 50,000 feet. It is outfitted with infrared, laser and radar targeting, and with a ton and a half of guided bombs and missiles.

The Reaper is loaded, but there is no one on board. Its pilot, as it bombs targets in Iraq , will sit at a video console 7,000 miles away in Nevada ... The arrival of these outsized U...S. "hunter-killer" drones, in aviation history's first robot attack squadron, will be a watershed moment even in an Iraq that has seen too many innovative ways to hunt and kill. That moment, one the Air Force will likely low-key, is expected "soon," says the regional U.S. .. air commander. How soon? "We're still working that," Lt. Gen. Gary North said in an interview. The Reaper's first combat deployment is expected in Afghanistan , and senior Air Force officers estimate it will land in Iraq sometime between this fall and next spring. They look forward to it.

"With more Reapers, I could send manned airplanes home," North said.

The Associated Press has learned that the Air Force is building a 400,000-square-foot expansion of the concrete ramp area now used for Predator drones here at Balad, the biggest U.S. air base in Iraq , 50 miles north of Baghdad . That new staging area could be turned over to Reapers. It is another sign that the Air Force is planning for an extended stay in Iraq , supporting Iraqi government forces in any continuing conflict, even if U.S. ground troops are drawn down in the coming years. The estimated two dozen or more unmanned MQ-1 Predators now doing surveillance over Iraq , as the 46th Expeditionary Reconnaissance Squadron, have become mainstays of the U.S. war effort, offering round-the-clock airborne "eyes" watching over road convoys, tracking nighttime insurgent movements via infrared sensors, and occasionally unleashing one of their two Hellfire missiles on a target. From about 36,000 flying hours in 2005, the Predators are expected to log 66,000 hours this year over Iraq and Afghanistan .

The MQ-9 Reaper, when compared with the 1995-vintage Predator, represents a major evolution of the unmanned aerial vehicle, or UAV. At five tons gross weight, the Reaper is four times heavier than the Predator. Its size 36 feet long, with a 66-foot wingspan is comparable to the profile of the Air Force's workhorse A-10 attack plane. It can fly twice as fast and twice as high as the Predator. Most significantly, it carries many more weapons.

UNDER THE RADAR: Air Force ramps up in Iraq

While the Predator is armed with two Hellfire missiles, the Reaper can carry 14 of the air-to-ground weapons, or four Hellfires and two 500-pound bombs. "It's not a recon squadron," Col. Joe Guasella, operations chief for the Central Command's air component, said of the Reapers. "It's an attack squadron, with a lot more kinetic ability." "Kinetic" Pentagon argot for destructive power is what the Air Force had in mind when it christened its newest robot plane with a name associated with death. "The name Reaper captures the lethal nature of this new weapon system," Gen. T. Michael Moseley, Air Force chief of staff, said in announcing the name last September. General Atomics of San Diego has built at least nine of the MQ-9s thus far, at a cost of $69 million per set of four aircraft, with ground equipment. The Air Force's 432nd Wing, a UAV unit formally established on May 1, is to eventually fly 60 Reapers and 160 Predators. The numbers to be assigned to Iraq and Afghanistan will be classified. The Reaper is expected to be flown as the Predator is by a two-member team of pilot and sensor operator who work at computer control stations and video screens that display what the UAV "sees." Teams at Balad, housed in a hangar beside the runways, perform the takeoffs and landings, and similar teams at Nevada's Creech Air Force Base, linked to the aircraft via satellite, take over for the long hours of overflying the Iraqi landscape. American ground troops, equipped with laptops that can download real-time video from UAVs overhead, "want more and more of it," said Maj. Chris Snodgrass, the Predator squadron commander here. The Reaper's speed will help. "Our problem is speed," Snodgrass said of the 140-mph Predator. "If there are troops in contact, we may not get there fast enough.. The Reaper will be faster and fly farther." The new robot plane is expected to be able to stay aloft for 14 hours fully armed, watching an area and waiting for targets to emerge.

"It's going to bring us flexibility, range, speed and persistence," said regional commander North, "such that I will be able to work lots of areas for a long, long time." The British also are impressed with the Reaper, and are buying three for deployment in Afghanistan later this year. The Royal Air Force version will stick to the "recon" mission, however, no weapons on board.
